Bettina works with litigation, tax law, company law, professional liability matters, public administration law and EEA law. She is admitted to the Norwegian Supreme Court (since 2006) and litigates regularly before Norwegian courts, in addition to handling a number of administrative cases. She has also litigated before the EFTA Court and filed complaints with the EFTA Surveillance Authority. Bettina regularly advises on issues relating to tax structuring and M&A transactions. Bettina has a doctoral degree (Dr.juris) in tax law from the University of Oslo and published a book on "Tax avoidance". She received her education from the University of Oslo, Oxford University and Harvard Law School. Bettina is the author of several articles. She was a member of the Tax Law committee, which prepared the Norwegian Official Report NOU:2022:20 "A comprehensive tax system". In the Norwegian Financial Daily's annual lawyers survey, Bettina is ranked as one of Norway's leading tax lawyers. She is also ranked in band 1 in Chambers International, Chambers Europe and Legal 500 within tax law and HNW. In 2019, she was awarded "Legal performance of the year" in the Norwegian Financial Daily's annual lawyers survey for her work with the property tax case against the municipality of Oslo. In 2021, she was ranked by the Norwegian journal Advokatbladet ["Lawyers' magazine"] as one of hundred lawyers who have contributed to changing Norway during the last hundred years.

Selected projects

Cases before Norwegian courts

Bettina has litigated various principled cases, such as the first Norwegian class action regarding property tax, and other cases concerning the concept of enterprise, anti-avoidance doctrine, the transfer pricing provision, convertible bonds, shipping tax and lawyers' duty of confidentiality. She has also represented insurance companies and audit firms in several professional liability cases.

Cases before the EFTA Court and the EFTA Surveillance Authority

Bettina has litigated several lawsuits and complaints before the EFTA Court and the EFTA Surveillance Authority ("ESA"), including Fokus Bank (E-1/04), Ptarmigan Trust (E-3/13 and E-20/13). She has litigated complaints to ESA concerning Norwegian dividend payment rules in conflict with EEA regulations, and concerning Norwegian CFC rules, wealth tax rules and exit rules. The cases have contributed to the abolition of the discriminatory dividend payment rules, to the inclusion of the participation exemption method into the Norwegian Tax Act in 2004, as well as to amendments to the exit tax rules in 2010 and to the Norwegian CFC rules in 2013.
