Hans Erik's practice covers the entire area of intellectual property and TMT law. He advises Wiersholm's clients on a wide range of matters related to intellectual property law, trademark law and marketing law and has for many years also assisted clients in legal areas related to broadcasting, media and technology and telecommunication. He has wide experience in assisting companies in the technology and media sectors. In addition, Hans Erik also has long experience with extensive contract negotiations within these markets and legal areas, including strategic as well as legal advice. He has extensive experience from the relevant industries and has also held directorships with important market players. Chambers and Partners and Legal 500 have ranked Hans Erik as one of Norway's most prominent experts on intellectual property and TMT.

Hans Erik has longstanding experience in the industry and combines this with advice in a very balanced way. He understands the commercial considerations very well.
